Freight Management Services

Careful planning and preparation of freight logistics is essential and will save you substantial amounts of money. Goods that are damaged or “hung up” in transit or a customs port of entry will usually attract fees, fines, and surcharges.

IMA can assist your company with any transportation challenge, including international shipments, outbound shipments to your customers, inbound shipments of inventory, cross-docking, even returns. From courier service, through small parcel, LTL and truckload, ocean and air, IMA’s services include the initial research and rate quote, packaging specifications, and freight. Many companies exist to pick up your shipment; our motto is “We Deliver!”.

Marketing Support

If your business is expanding (or you have plans to expand), putting your freight management in experienced and knowledgeable hands will be marketing dollars well spent. You can’t afford to let logistics failures jeopardize your potential for growth. Contact us for a freight services consultation, then let us help you differentiate your business from your competitors through high quality, reliable product distribution.

Freight Management Know-How

Today there is no such thing as a simple shipment. Carriers describe their fees, services, and terms and conditions in lawyer-prepared manuals. Their fee structures are complex, and vary according to weight, dimension, destination, and over 30 additional variables and surcharges. Damage claims are adjudicated by third parties whose incentive is to minimize payouts. “Inadequate packaging” is often cited as the reason for non-payment.

Palletized LTL (less than truckload) shipments must be adequately wrapped, corner-protected, and banded to minimize damage. Often, inbound shipments must be re-palletized due to product overhang, overheight, uneven stacking, flimsy wrapping, and other problems.

We design your product’s shipping configuration with carrier compliance and cost effectiveness in mind. We also research and analyze your freight to determine the most advantageous NMFC coding/classification. Our experienced and knowledgeable staff ensures your freight arrives safely and intact.
